

Contents

Translator's Introduction	i
---------------------------	---

PART I

Logic

Translator's Introduction to Part I	3
-------------------------------------	---

Chapter 1.

On the Twofold Via inventionis and the Twofold Via iudicii According to St. Thomas	11
---	----

Chapter 2.

On the Search for Definitions According to Aristotle and St. Thomas	21
--	----

PART II

Certain Questions Concerning Knowledge

Translator's Introduction to Part II	37
--------------------------------------	----

Chapter 1.

The Threefold Foundation of Thomist Realism	47
--	----

Chapter 2.

Cognoscens quodammodo fit vel est aliud a se (On the Nature of Knowledge as Union with the Other as Other)	63
---	----

Chapter 3.

Whether the Mind Knows Itself Through its Essence or Through Some Species	79
--	----

Chapter 4.

There Cannot Be Genuine Sensation Without a Real Sensed Thing	101
--	-----

PART III
Moral and Political Philosophy

Translator's Introduction to Part III	123
Chapter 1. Prudence's Place in the Organism of the Virtues	153
Chapter 2. The Instability of the Acquired Moral Virtues in the State of Mortal Sin	171
Chapter 3. The Subordination of the State to the Perfection of the Human Person According to St. Thomas	183
Chapter 4. The Divine Requirements of the Final End in Political Matters	205
Chapter 5. Truth and Indifferentism	219
Chapter 6. On Royal Government	239

PART IV
Garrigou pugnans: Critical Philosophical Essays

Translator's Introduction to Part IV	253
Chapter 1. The Thomist Critique of the Cartesian Cogito	261
Chapter 2. The Empiricist Skepticism of David Hume: A reductio ad absurdum in Defense of Traditional Realism	273

Chapter 3. Hegelian Dialectic and Thomist Metaphysics	285
Chapter 4. On Evolutionism and the Distinction Between the Natural and Supernatural Orders	299
Chapter 5. The Encyclical “Pascendi” and Phenomenalism	313

PART V
Philosophy, Faith, and Theology

Translator’s Introduction to Part V	325
Chapter 1. On the Eminence of the Deity: In What Sense the Divine Perfections Are “Formally and Eminently” in God	341
Chapter 2. On the Relationship Between Philosophy and Religion	361
Chapter 3. Apologetics Directed by Faith	399
Chapter 4. Theology and the Life of Faith	421
* * *
Index	445